A JAMALI LOVE PUBLICATION

I found my first Jamali, Jamali Love as I started to love myself, even though I had often felt like a “Caged Princess.”

I suffered great heart break and I suffered great oppression.
At the end, I gained self dignity...
what a wonderful trade.

confidence

When you see a strong, confident woman as a role model, and as your mother, you become that strong, confident woman.

wealth

The first principle that Muslim women need to understand is that to become truly empowered, they must achieve financial independence.

freedom

When I was able to break the chains of societal and cultural oppression, I tasted true Freedom.

justice

Justice is one of the core principles of Islam. Freedom is your right.

faith

Allah is my best friend. I have unshakable faith in His mercy. Allah has your back.

leadership

I knew I must share this with other Muslim women.

And that is why, with my daughter, Natasha, the Jamali Love Movement was born.

Why we are helping Muslim women become a force of change and achieve their highest potential.

“At first I wanted more for myself, then I wanted more for Humanity.”

Like any woman, my journey was not and easy one. As a Muslim woman, in many ways it was even more challenging.

From my native Pakistan to the USA, I always paid a price for simply wanting to be me, free and resourceful, and ambitious.

From abuse, failed marriages and bankruptcy, I discovered the infinite wisdom of Allah, and gained Confidence, Abundance, a multi-million dollar company, a deep Connection with God, & Self Love.

But none of this would make sense if I don't share this knowledge for you to realize your potential and make it a reality.

“I was looking at my mom raking in the money, and I thought “I want that too”.

And then I started hearing what so many women were saying about Eram Saeed, how she inspired them, how their lives changed, and what an impact she was having on so many muslim women around the world.

Through these women, I discovered my mother and her mission.

I have embarked on this wonderful journey with my mother to help her help so many.

It is a rare privilege to have the opportunity to grow so quickly and impact for the better the lives of so many other women through empowerment, self-confidence and wisdom.
